Darts Regulation Authority extends partnership with Sportradar Integrity Services

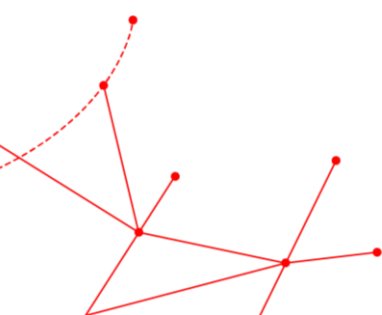

The Darts Regulation Authority (DRA) and Sportradar Integrity Services – a global supplier of sports integrity solutions – have entered a multi-year agreement for the bet monitoring of Professional Darts Corporation (PDC) events.

Throughout the agreement, all PDC tournaments, including events such as the World Championship, Premier League, Challenge Tour events and Q School will be monitored by Sportradar Integrity Services via their Universal Fraud Detection System (UFDS). Sportradar already provide services to DRA to support disciplinary investigations into betting-related matters.

The UFDS is an advanced and proven bet monitoring system that has been independently assessed and verified by recognized experts in the field of sports betting and integrity. A global team of qualified integrity experts provide analysis on irregular betting patterns with any suspicious matches subsequently reported to partners, providing essential visibility into the global match-fixing landscape. During 2020, Sportradar Integrity Services detected more than 600 suspicious matches across global sport, and over 6,000 suspicious matches have been witnessed across the past 16 years.

Discussing the partnership, Chairman of the DRA Nigel Mawer said “We are very happy to be utilising Sportradar Integrity Services’ UFDS to help strengthen the integrity measures around PDC events. We already work with Sportradar’s Intelligence and Investigation Services on integrity matters, and they have provided valuable support during past investigations. With the extension of this partnership through the UFDS, we will have visibility over global betting activity across all levels of darts, and this help will help to support the healthy growth of our game.”

Sportradar Integrity Services Managing Director Andreas Krannich added: “As we witness the growing betting interest in Darts over recent years, and as its popularity increases around the world, we also have to recognise the risks that come with this. As such, we are delighted to announce this extension of our integrity partnership with the DRA, and are proud to be supporting the growth and success of PDC events around the world with the protection of our proven bet monitoring service.”
